Towed by a shark.

Heading scross the bay to St. Simon's light. the man in charge of the wheel hailed Mr. Tife and directed his attention to something ahead of us. The object turned cut to be a shark's fio. so large as to be a matter of wonder to the sailors aboard. The boat happened to be provided with a shark line—a marilla out about a balf inch thick with a large hook tied to a trace chain. A mill piece of beef was quickly out on the hook, a flat put on the ine and then cast out, and the line made fast to the cap stain. As we neared the fish the find sappeared ard all o gorly watched the float. Suddenig the line tigocened, the flut cisappeared, and the headway of the best was checked, and the min at the constain yelled out, "He's hocked." I have been fi hing, but I never saw the like of that. The rellow rose to the surface of the wave and looked at us. He had about seventy five yerds of line cut by this time and socuelly to a second be made a rush and jumped clear over the bow of the steamer. The ladies then got moder shelter and all hands helped to held that line. The follow when he failed to eat us us, mad for the ceran and fairly made the water foam. After about a mile's run be began to tire and the best ws headed for the beach, and then one of the hands waded ashore, taking the end of the line with him, which he made fast to a stump and come back for help. Four of us got on store and commenced to pul Mr. Shark sshore. It took all we could do, and two rift bills to boot, to land him. When I tell you that he measured 17 feet 10} toches from tip to tip, you will know what a job we had. We determined to prove that we cought this shark, so we gave two negroes four d liars to cut him open and get his head off so that wo could get his jaw ov r home. His teeth are wonderful. being ab. ut three and a quarter icohes long and so strong that he so nally flattened out the bg iron hook. The negroes made quite a prz. In his stomach they tound eleven silver M x:can dollars and one Spanish donb'oon, and ard , whole lot of bress buttons .- Albany (Ga.)

POPPING THE QUESTION. - A Buff lo paper Drugs, Paints, Oils, Garden Soed his girl just as his horse started to run with the sleign. Birg determined to have it over with be got the question cut at the mement the sleigh struck a mile post. The girl was thrown high in the sir but as she came d wo she uttered a firm "Yes, Charley," and then fainted. There is some doubt as to the truth of this tory, tu: the one that follows is correct in every detail. One day les: we k two young w men of D verport boarded an Eistern bound trata that they might ride a few miles to Me lios with another girl, a through passinger from the West and a fermer classmate at Vatser. As one of the Davenport girls was not very weil acquainted with the passengers she said she would stand on the rear platform to water the train or se the Mississippi. It happened that her beau wie on the same train, and i happened again that the bluebing vouth j. inco his sweeth-art on the platform. The morning was delightful, the piri's cheeks were rosy and the great river spatkled in suclight beneath. "Right there," says the local chronicler "while the crach was above the middle of the might Mississippi he asked her if she would be his and ste said she would." The reporter further tells that as the yourg man stooped to kiss his beirothed a laugh in the doorwry so startled him that he sumbled backward. The girl caught him in time to save his life and there w.s much excitement and rejuicing. The laugh o me from the o her yourg women, who were stending at the door and who saw the whole performance.

THE MICROSCOPE AT HOME. - Most people ike to get what they pay for. The microscope, in many cases, places the possibility of ourtainly on this point within the reach of its owner. Suppose, for exemple, that the lady of the house wishes to know whether the piece of si k she has set her heart upon for a dress is all sick or a mix ure with cotton, jate or China gress and, if all si'k, whether it has been loaded with dye and arce ing. The microic pe will set ber mind at rest. Take a pattern of the silk, utravel the warp and welt, and ix mine it under the quarter inch of j c ive, and you will, at any rate, see wh ther all the little fibres, of which he west and warp are comprised, look slike, That, of ocurse, will not cell you whather the material is silk; but if you precure a pices of knows silk, and study its appearance, and com nare it with the suspec ed specimen, you wil come to a sound conclusion very soon. Then ake a little cotton and examine it, to fied that and different from the long, consistent tubes of fix wien their attenuated erds and marked and examine them careful y, noting their piouliarities, and you will be oble to tell whether your coat is all wool or, as is much more probable nor, whether your wife's sable moff or seal i . k .t is what it professes to be, and will not inprobaby learn a lesson in the depar ment of trade mirahiy. A suitab's microtope can be precured for a trifl .

LITTLE THINGS-It is a bad policy to despise s nal, persons or small things. A single grape shot settles the destiny of an empire, and a di. mond nacklace has contributed largely to a bloody revolution. The gabbling of geese saved B. m . The accident of two spectacle glasses at proper fecus gave the world the telescope The fail of an apple revesled to Newton the law which hangs the world it pace, the grandest law of the material u.v.ree. The classing of two hammers upon a blackemith's savil sug-gested to Pythagora; the relations of mus cal sounds. We cannot comprehend a great truth by intuition. It is only by learning now and then, and here and there, a small truth that we are able to construct any great idea we seek.
Our destiny is suspended on slight and trivial tair gs. To despise them is to despise life, forture, hat piness.
